

Mr. Hite,
January 21, 2024

Thank you for making all this information on wind chimes available. I have constructed at least 5 sets of chimes based on your website, the largest being more than 8ft long. I called them Winchester Cathedral.

I am a 100% disabled veteran, and this is an artistic outlet for me. I don't draw or paint well and unless folks read my poetry, I don't have another outlet for art. This has been a godsend for me. I am now looking toward making chimes with healing frequencies. I also want to start making some bells.

One of the things I try to do when I try to build wind chimes is reutilize resources. It seems that those supplies have been "seasoned" and often have a better resonance. Besides that, it keeps some things out of landfills.

You are welcome to use this email purposes to support your website and encourage others to do things like this.

Thanks again.

Most Respectfully,
Johnny Kirby
